The screenshot displays a web-based psychometric test interface. The top section shows a browser window with the URL 'mckalms.in/mod/quiz/attempt.php?attempt=687598&cmid=14309&page=6'. The test is titled 'MCKA' and is for 'Allen George Podippara MCK107'. The time left is 0:28:54.

The first question is a pattern recognition test. It shows a sequence of six boxes, each containing a 2x2 grid of squares. The first five boxes contain different combinations of black and white squares. The sixth box contains a question mark. Below the sequence are six options labeled A through F, each with a different 2x2 grid pattern. The question asks to determine which box (from options A to F) goes in the missing part of the sequence.

The second question is a reading comprehension test. The text reads: "You are working as a graduate trainee in a large bank. Whilst undertaking your placement with the customer service team, you take a call from an upset client. He is claiming that he was expecting a refund on some banking fees he was wrongly charged for but he has not received them. He explains that a colleague of yours promised the refund would be in his account today but the money has not arrived yet. He is getting more upset and is raising his voice to you. Which among the following statements you wouldn't say to him?"

The options are:

- a. I am sure there is a logical explanation for this. If you give me your details I will look into it for you.
- b. Let me check with the colleague you mentioned about what the situation is. If you can hold for a couple of minutes I will speak to them and will be back with you in no time.
- c. I will do all I can to help you with this issue. If you give me your account details I will investigate what has happened here.
- d. Sir, I can hear that you are really upset but I need you to calm down so that I can help you.

The interface also includes a 'Next page' button, a 'Jump to...' dropdown menu, and a 'Quiz navigation' section with buttons for questions 1 through 15. The time left for the second question is 0:29:54.
